

Myer:

It depends, again, on how much information. You can find someone charged with possession with intent to distribute, all the way up to conspiracy level offenses if law enforcement is able to establish that there are multiple individuals involved. So you can have some very severe punishments and penalties- sentences no less than 20 years, ranging up to life in prison for those types of offenses.